

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

To control the receiving power, this invention uses a secondary battery to cut peaks of the receiving power. Further, this invention calculates the load
5 power from the detected receiving power value and command values of the secondary battery in the controller and the power generating facility, and filters the load power to create command values of the fuel cells.